

Wish You Were Here

05

Design Company: arch. Andrea Meirana

Location: Rimini, Italy

Area: 150 m<sup>2</sup>

Photographer: Andrea Meirana Architects

Hospitality world design has by now tested, compared and offered everything, but it is still difficult to affect something that Andrea Meirana considers the most important aspect: people inner self. The limits of luxury overcome unusual features and are aimed at private world. Intimacy is created only by individual relationships with the objects and becomes the fundamental input of his design research. The aim is to be surrounded with everything that people consider "standard" by exploring this concept beyond imagination to feel everywhere the intimacy that traveller is forced to leave aside, at home, where the most important objects of affection, furnishings and memories are integral part of the space where is living. Independently from social relationships, culture and past of each traveller, everything we leave at home is the most important part of the individual

Wish you were here! That fully changes 7-star accommodation concept offering a new and dedicated space: our own space. Disassembled, sent and newly assembled. The traveller can book the stay in the hotel chosen that, as equipped with a dedicated space, will set his room, which was previously disassembled and sent thanks to an integrated system of transport, logistic and setting. In this way, it will be possible to find our own space all over the world, where 7-stars hotel will have achieved this last frontier of luxury.

